THE TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 .- The change of affairs in the Tribune, has been the chief subject of comment here since the change was made. Nothing was known here of the matter, outside of the Tribune office, until yesterday. At a meeting of the trustees on Saturday, Mr. Ripley was chosen president, to fill Mr. Greeley's place, after which Mr. Reid announced the result of his negotiations with Mr. Orton, which took all the trustees by surprise; but congratulations were warmly given by all present, excepting two. Mr. Orton will be elected a trustee, to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Greeley's death, and it is possible there will be another vacancy to fill before long. All the old PITTSBURG, Dec. 24.—The weather continues cold. Mercury at zero at 4 o'clock. The river continues to receed slowly.

RIVER NEWS. DEPARTED.

Steamer Emma C. Elliott, Memphis James Fisk, Jr., Paducah Mollie Moore, New Orleans CONDITION OF THE RIVERS.

The river here was backed up about 7 feet by the ice gorge below here, but since it has opened the back water has gone down a little, but it is rising steadily. Cumberland river has risen over 21 feet at Nashville, and is coming booming down this way and will give us a good stage of water south. The Ohio river is clear between here and the mouth of the Cumberland river, but above there is gorged in several places. The gorge at Columbus is gone, and it is hoped that a like occurrence will not take place again, although it did not remain long enough to seriously interrupt navigation even to the transit steamer Illinois. No ice was passing out of the Mississippi, and it may be gorged but a short distance above here.

Special dispatches to THE BULLETIN report the condition of the Mississippi and Ohio rivers at various places.

BUSINESS AND WEATHER. Business on and about the levee was brisk and a long line of teams were busily engaged transferring freight from the cars to the wharfboats.

The weather was awful cold. Monday was the coldest of the season, and at five o'clock yesterday morning the thermometer was seven degrees below zero, which was eleven degrees colder than any time last winter.

MISCELLAN ROUS.

A dispatch from Columbus stated that at half-past 8 o'clock yesterday morning the gorge broke loose and floated on down the river, carrying with it the steamer Illinois and yesterday it was reported that she was fast in the shore ice, but she may have been able to work her way out. The news from her was very meagre and but little could be learned of the condition of things down there, but enough is known to state that the river is open and navigation resumed again.

The Emma C. Elliott started again yesterorday for Memphis, and will go through all right this time.

The Jim Fisk, after being detained here by the ice since last Saturday, left for Paducah last evening, as there was but little ice floating in the river at Paducah. The Fannie Lewis is still adding freight and will complete her load, and will leave this evening with a good trip. A flatboat loaded with wood and owned by Dennis Haley, was broke loose by the ice and carried on to the sand bar below the point, where it ran aground and remained last night. The Miss. V. T. Co. have a tow ready which they will send out by their tow-boat Crescent City soon.

The ferry boat did not make any trips, yesterday forenoon, as she was detained thawing out her pump and pipes which froze up the night before.

Forty thousand sacks of corn are reported ready for shipment at New Madrid and Point Pleasant.

Cobb, of Rockfort, was robbed of a pocket book containing $200 recently on the steamer Rose Hite. He hung his coat on a hook while washing, and the money was taken from it. "Young man, don't hang your cost on a book !"
